

Flight Lieutenant Arthur Ross was an American in the Royal Canadian Air Force and had joined 609 in July 1943, and was later awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross while as a flight commander with No. 193 Squadron. Shot down during the battle of Normandy, Ross was sheltered by the Resistance, whom he subsequently joined. He is credited with 2 enemy aircraft confirmed destroyed.